MOTHER'S DAY ON MAY 8

—Central Press Canadian—
Mother's Day brings memories of the bright May days of years ago when the cookie jar was produced after school hours were stored away on the shelf and the last errand finished before the ball game or skipping contest started down the street. Blossom time brings fragrant roses or Mother's favorite flowers to the gray-haired woman whose babies have gone away from home, or are leaving her by growing up. The second Sunday in May is officially set aside as Mother's Day.

The Elits Theatre, on Wednesday, May 11, at 8:30 p.m. will be the place of presentation for the third performance of the Wainwright Schools' Glee Club under the conductorship of Miss Gillies Bloom, with Miss Audrey Symes at the piano.

"Moments of Music" is an apt name for the program, since it is almost completely musical, and is the most ambitious undertaken by the choristers so far; sacred, folk, ballad and oratorical selections will be sung in two and three part arrangements; in addition individual singers will present solo and light classical pieces.

Amateur artists will be the Melody Makers, a small aggregation of young instrumentalists under the direction of Mr. L. B. Adams; they will play popular and light classical pieces.

Guest artist will be lyric soprano Mrs. A. T. Gray of Edmonton, whose lovely voice was frequently heard in concerts here, during her several years of residence in our town.

It is hoped that while families will attend, since the Club exists to further love for, and interest in, things musical. ## Narrow Escape When Cars Sideswipe 10 Miles East Of Wainwright

Prior to the ceremony, Miss Delores Torgensen sang "O Perfect Love."

Entering the church on the arm of Lloyd Mackie, the bride wore a traditional wedding gown of white satin, which featured a lace yoke and high point sleeves. Her finger tip veil was held in place with a white corsage, and she carried a bouquet of red roses.

C.Y.O. NOTES

The senior and Junior C.Y.O. Groups held a joint meeting in the Separate School Auditorium Sunday evening, May 1st.

All the parents in the parish were invited and we were very pleased to see so many attend. A short business meeting was conducted and plans for the senior's dance on May 20th were discussed. The juniors reported that they are going to sell carnations for Mother's Day.

A very good programme was given. Although the Barber Shop Quartette got the biggest laugh, other numbers were worthy of mention.

A lovely lunch was served and the group dispersed early enough for everyone to get their quota of sleep.

The angler had just landed a fish when the inquisitive woman came to be passing.

"Oh," she exclaimed, "that poor little fish!"

The angler replied: "Well, madam, if he'd kept his mouth shut he would not have got into trouble!"

MOTHERS' DAY

Once again Mothers' Day rolls around, and in keeping with custom and our finer feelings, we who are fortunate enough to have living mothers, will express our feelings with gifts and flowers, embraces and words of love. Mothers' Day is indeed a day worthy of celebration, and in its meaning it outshines all the common everyday holidays which mark our national or social progress... indeed there are none but the sublime religious days of Christmas and Easter and the important day of thankfulness, Thanksgiving Day, which can be spoken of as comparative in their importance.

There can be no question of the sanctity of our feelings on Mothers' Day... prompted by the special occasion, we focus our attention on the tremendous debt of love we owe to our mothers... we, too often like the prodigal, return home, with a vague realization of what it all means. We use the word "vague" but few of us are capable of assessing the love, the sacrifice, the anxiety, the toil, that is implied by the word "mother". In the rush of everyday life, in the selfishness of climbing and the natural forgetfulness of human beings, we are so apt to forget the deeper and more important things. We take mother for granted... we may even stop to express our impatience... we certainly are often guilty of neglect. But mother never changes. Her love for us flows freely and strong through all the ups and downs and exigencies of our existence. She suffers with our pains and is uplifted by our victories, she grieves when we stray and rejoices when we return.

Let us then make a double effort to celebrate this Mother's Day in a fashion worthy of the mothers it is designed to honor. Let us moreover remember that it should not merely be a few hours of added devotion, but rather a day of reassessment which will lead us to a year-long revival of our appreciation of our mothers... a revival that will be marked with greater kindness and thoughtfulness throughout the whole year.

1915 WAS A DRY SPRING

The greatest crop year that Alberta ever knew, 1915, started out with a very dry spring. It did have the advantage of a very heavy snow in the early fall, followed by a warm spell when even garden peas were harvested in November. But the spring drought dragged along until May 13th, at least in Southern Alberta, and day after day the winds lifted the dust in a most discouraging manner. Then there was a three-day blizzard, with frost, followed by warm rains which started by midnight by May 24th. The result was that in Bassano and the town had burned off a nuisance around the year previous, and the growth of mushrooms on that burned-off land during the early summer of 1915 was phenomenal. At commercial rates we ate about three dollars worth of mushrooms a day for some six weeks. Maybe 1949 will give a repeat performance. As any dry year, the drought danger is not now. It is the May, June and July rains that count—Canmore Canadian.

Hard speech between those who have loved is hideous in the memory, like the sight of greatness and beauty sunk into vice and rage.

BRITISH COMMONWEALTH OF NATIONS

Important discussions which could have momentous developments are presently in session between members within the British Commonwealth of Nations. They are highly significant talks because of their outcome rests the future of India, and perhaps the British Empire.

To ask the ordinary person what links Canada to the Commonwealth of Nations is to ask for a non-committal answer or perhaps a straight blank reply of "I don't know." Many Americans in the States still cling to the old idea that we are a vassal of Britain. Nothing irritates us more than to be considered a "colony," yet that idea is widely held.

There is no written constitution binding Canada to the Commonwealth of Nations. In fact, the only real tie seems to be a common kinship, to which we regularly pay homage by singing "God Save the King." But there is more than a devoted monarch in our relationship. There is our common heritage, common language, common legal ties, common constitution, common culture. These are enduring bonds, because they sink to the marrow of civilization.

The problem at the conference is to seek some arrangement whereby India may obtain its sovereignty as a republic (independent of the kingdom) and still remain in the Commonwealth; based ostensibly on its common kinship. If the issue cannot be reconciled, India may cast aside the sheltering arm of the Commonwealth. There are indications are too serious to think of failure.—The Lacombe ally.

We will hope for the Conference's success. The implications are too serious to think of failure.—The Lacombe Globe.

"What did the landlady do when she found out you had left the light burning for three days?"
"She turned us both out."

A CRISIS PENDING IN INTERNATIONAL TRADE

It's time we came down to earth and stopped kidding ourselves. The first step in the solution of the danger confronting Canada's international trade situation was made by John Diefenbaker in his charge against the present administration on Tuesday. But this situation is too big to be confined within rigid party lines. The plain facts are that Canada has a surplus in many lines of production. Many countries would like to buy these surpluses, but they're stymied through lack of exchange facilities. Here is where some brain power must be devised and applied. It is not good enough to let nature alone take its course. If necessary Canada must foster barter agreements, for it is necessary that our surplus goods must find their way to the consumer. We learned of a representative of a large processing firm who just returned from Europe a week ago. He could sell his firm's products to countries who could pay sterling exchange but there is no way established right now to convert Sterling exchange into dollars and Britain will not sell for export and take Sterling exchange from dollar countries. Belgium, France, Holland, and Czechoslovakia would be glad to trade on a barter basis, some central exchange facilities could be set up. Until the past few weeks Ottawa has been completely cold to any approaches on this subject. There are millions of people who want and need our apples, our salmon, our meats, our wheat and many other products. No wonder there is a revival of the hungry thirties philosophy. "If it's physically possible it should be financially possible."

IN OTHERS' WORDS

TRANS-CANADA HIGHWAY

Representatives of the committee on the proposed Trans-Canada highway are now in Ottawa to confer with government officials and to present a "brief" of their arguments for the northern route. We have been favored with a copy of this brief and it is a marvelous document in that it is literally brief. Most of these arguments are in down-to-earth language. It is typically western and typically Albertan in the way it strikes at the core of the problem with a forthrightness that cannot be topped.

The main point made by the brief is that the highway is as vitally important to all Canada as the railroads. In view of this fact the highway should be the responsibility of the Federal Government—a very sound argument. The point is that if left to the provinces, Alberta will be the subject of a "grand squeeze" between British Columbia and Saskatchewan, for when they decide on their provincial route, Alberta will have to join both whether one be in the south and the other north.

The brief compares elevations of the various proposed routes, well to the construction costs and population served which are all excellent arguments but the most potent of all is their charge that a four-lane highway cannot be built through a substantial portion of the Kicking Horse route which at present seems to be favored over the other proposals.

It is a charge which should receive the very serious consideration of both provincial and federal governments. Every day we are finding that present roads inadequate for the traffic they must carry. Modern demands have changed district roads to secondary highways and secondary highways to main arteries. Our hard surfaced roads are hopelessly narrow for today's needs.

Provincial roads are going to cost us plenty in time and money before they can be rebuilt to present requirements and it is unthinkable that we should saddle ourselves with an antiquated Trans-Canada highway. If we are going to build one let's make it wide enough to handle any foreseeable traffic. It can be done for little more during the building, but if we don't take the necessary width at the start the road can be a drag on our progress for many years to come.

Since the St. Lawrence route bypasses us completely our remarks can be taken as an unbiased opinion. We do think the arguments advanced by the Yellowhead Association are sound and commendable for a very fine piece of work.

MOUNTAIN DIFFERENTIAL ENDED; ONE INEQUITY REMOVED

Climaxing many months of hearings and legal arguments, the Board of Railway Commissioners has today last ordered removal of the mountain differential freight rate and other above-normal charges for Rocky Mountain hauling in doing so, the Board upheld the contention of British Columbia, and to a lesser extent of Alberta, both of whom claimed that the principle involved was unsound, and refuted the claims of Manitoba and Winnipeg that even higher differential rates were justified.

The complaint of a freight rate structure is a complicated and highly technical undertaking and one which we do not feel competent to discuss at any length. As we understand the differential, however, it involved a charge of 1 1/2 times prairie rates for freight being hauled over the mountain and it has been the subject of much controversy at different times; we remember hearing of cases where freight from eastern Canada could be shipped east, loaded in a house, sent through the Panama Canal and landed on the west coast at a lower rate than the all-land haul across the country. It appears to us a better must have been something wrong with a freight rate structure which produced such vagaries.

Out of several differing opinions the majority of opinion seems to indicate that Alberta will make moderate gains by removal of the differential; that, however, is not criterion of whether the change should have been made or not—the principle involved is greater than any consideration of local or provincial advantage. It does not appear to us sound business, particularly in a fast developing country such as Canada, to assess tariffs on a basis of regional cost. Carried to a ridiculous extreme this could retard growth of some of our outlying areas for many years if, in fact, it has not already done so. Carrying the argument to its logical extreme, one might argue that certain divisions, being located on the perfectly flat lands with fairly dense population, would receive a better rate than the next division which had the misfortune to contain the old bad grade or expensive bridging project; certain it is that many of our richest areas in Alberta would never have survived the struggle if, in their early days, they had borne the cost of railway operation in their areas. Yet it is proposed to follow the principle of assessing costs against each regional area we might have expected to see an area such as the Headley division (to quote a local example) paying high freight rates because of the fact that it runs through a sparsely settled and comparatively new country, while

IT'S OUR CRISIS

We average people quite naturally assume that with expanding industry, good crops, full employment and general well-being our railroads should be coming into their own. We wouldn't be very wrong if gross profits were the basis of the argument. The 6th annual report of the Canadian Pacific Railway shows that gross earnings are substantially up almost 15% above those of 1947, another satisfactory year. There is the basis of our delusion that we are well with the railroads.

Unfortunately that is only half the picture. While gross earnings were going up, they were being overtaken steadily by costs up almost 44%. There is the irrepressible conflict between prices and costs. The railroad's statement points the case dramatically. Earnings are up. The freight rate per ton mile is up, the revenue per passenger mile is up. Every place where property can help, there has been help. What management do not only to stimulate business but to restrict utility has been done. The determinable costs have not increased. Interest and rental charges and dividends are constant. Less has been spent for modernization and other company purposes, yet net earnings are down. The reason is clear. Working expenses are up almost 47 million.

There is one uniform factor in all these costs, the wages from which we live. How does it work out? The Financial Post gives us some interesting comparisons. An engine and ten coaches on an average train, in 1929 cost $49,577. Today they cost $101,280. If the engine burns oil, the cost is twice what it was in 1929. If it costs to burn coal the cost is only 85% in its last year's operation. The C.P.R. laid three million new ties and 320 miles of new rails and ballast.

Individual differences are given more consideration. All students do not get the same treatment. Again we are on the right road. But our "problem" children are still with us. These are the children that find it impossible to grow normally within the mould that has been built about them. They become diseased. Often the cause is to be found in the home; sometimes in the school; sometimes in society generally.

We made a great stride forward when we came to recognize the "problem" child as a diseased person on whom remedial treatment should be applied. The more difficult step of deciding on the right treatment is the job of the psychiatrist. In this case he is the diagnosing physician. He prescribes the treatment, but he cannot administer it. It is the duty chiefly of the home and the school to treat the patient.

It may not be generally known that our Department of Health now provides free psychiatric services in the Province. Guidance Clinics have been set up. In each clinic is a psychiatrist (a medical doctor trained to diagnose and treat mental disorders) and a specially trained nurse. One may obtain the services of the clinic by making application through the District Health Nurse or other appropriate channels.

Now, when we realize that a school child presents a "problem" that cannot be corrected by usual means, we ask the Guidance Clinic to give aid. Interviews with parents and patient are arranged. Tests are given. The experience and opinions of teachers and others are made use of. The advice obtained from these clinics has been very helpful as it indicates the best known method of treatment. #### GENERAL RECOMMENDATIONS FOR WEED CONTROL

Conscientious applications of the following eight practices will assist in keeping weeds under control.

(1) Sow Only Clean Seed

(2) Control Weeds on Uncultivated Land
Fence lines, stack bottoms, field margins, road allowances and the barnyard are often allowed to produce heavy crops of weeds. Their seeds move into the field with the help of wind, water, drifting soil and snow, livestock, machinery, birds, etc. Seed all cultivated parts of the farm to strongly competing grasses, legumes, or a mixture of both.

(3) Avoid Spreading Weed Seeds.
Farm machinery such as combines, hay racks, threshing machines, portable seed cleaning plants, etc., are first class spreaders. Feed grain containing weed seeds should be ground. All screenings should be disposed of one way or another. Wagon boxes and trucks must be covered when hauling grain or other matter known to contain weed seeds.

(4) Make Cultivation For Weed Control Effective.
All cultivation should be properly timed and tillage machines should be correctly adjusted so that all top growth of weeds is completely destroyed. Generally, shallow cultivation is best for weed control.

(5) Seed-Down Very Weedy Fields
Forage Crops will control annual weeds and stunt or smother most pernicious biennials with grass or grass legume mixtures are advantageous not only from the soil improvement angle, but also from the weed control viewpoint.

(6) Use Vigorous Crops on Weedy Land
Early Barley and Fall Rye offer stronger competition to weeds than do wheat or oats. Flax offers very little competition to weeds.

(7) Watch For New Weeds.
Steadily all the weeds that cause so much trouble and expense have been introduced and have spread out from small infestations. Leafy Spurge, Hoary Cress, Russian Knapweed, Field Bindweed and Tansy are some of the worst weeds and are very persistent and hard to control. These weeds are becoming common in the Municipal District, Tartarian.

Huckwheat is becoming more common in the past few months and the seeds cannot be cleaned out of straw. Watch for any strange plants and bring them into our office for identification or send them to the Field Crops Branch in Edmonton.

(8) Encourage Community Effort.
Be careful in purchasing seed collections such as "Wild Flower Garden" mixtures and secure them only from reliable firms. There is good evidence that Tansy has been introduced in this manner.

Weeds do not recognize farm boundaries. The individual can clean up his farm, but unless his neighbors do likewise, he is constantly faced with new infestations. The seeding of grass on roadides, that have been properly graded and backfilled is strongly recommended. Encourage and support your Agricultural Service Board in their weed control program.

IODINE FOR BROOD SOWS

Although the prevalence of iodine deficiency in Alberta has been known for a long time, inquiries are still received regarding the cause of pigs born with little hair and with a swelling on the throat. A hairless, puffed-out litter is a sure sign of severe iodine deficiency, but Dr. L. W. McKillop, Department of Animal Sciences, University of Alberta, reminds us that pigs need not necessarily be hairless or have a goiter to suffer from lack of iodine. If only a partial or mild deficiency of iodine exists it may show up simply as weak litters.

Dr. McKillop says that feeding iodized salt to the sow throughout the pregnancy period will in most cases take care of the iodine problem. In areas where stronger measures are necessary the following suggestion might be followed: In a glass or stoneware jar with a tight lid, dissolve 7 ounces of potassium iodide in one gallon of water, and sprinkle one tablespoonful of the solution on the feed for each sow once a week throughout the pregnancy period.

One-Way Disc Harrow

The above machine is becoming more and more popular with prairie farmers. It is made in sizes of 12 to 24 feet and can be used to advantage in places where a single or double disc has been used. On the same principle as the one-way machine leaves no ridges in the field if properly adjusted. Discs are arranged in separated gangs which allow the machine a certain amount of flexibility in working over rough ground. Seed boxes can be obtained for these machines. When using this outfit for field work speed of operation should be kept between 3 and 3 1/2 miles per hour. The low discs have a greater pulverizing action on the soil than the one-way.

RECOMMENDATIONS REGARDING OAT VARIETIES

The Alberta Cereal Varietal Station Committee in their 1949 publication list Ajax, Eagle, Victory and Laramie as recommended varieties for production within the province of Alberta. The choice of variety is dependent upon soil and climatic conditions.

An indication of the relative performance of these varieties at the Dominion Experimental Station, Lacombe, Alberta, says A. D. McPherson, is shown by the following long-time average figures: Maturity: Victory—115 days; Eagle—113 days; Ajax—106 days; Laramie—102 days. Average yields per acre for the same period show Victory with 119 bushels; Eagle—124 bushels; Ajax—126 bushels; and Laramie—122 bushels.

The above indicates that Victory can be classed as a relatively late maturing variety. It has exceptionally long straw but shows a decided weakness in strength of straw when grown on the heavy soils of central Alberta. It has a plump attractive type of kernel and in areas where maturity is not the limiting factor of production, Victory has continued to hold its favor when compared with other varieties.

Eagle exhibits superior strength of straw when grown on the heavy soils of central Alberta. It matures slightly earlier than Victory and compares favorably in yielding ability. Eagle has a slightly smaller kernel than Victory with about 1 per cent less hull. As indicated above, the main reason for growing Eagle in preference to Victory is that it has stronger straw which renders it more suitable for production on heavy soils where rainfall is plentiful.

Ajax may be classed as an early maturing variety with exceptional yielding ability in relation to its maturity. Unfortunately, it has a slim unattractive type of kernel, although its hull percentage is not high. In straw strength it compares favorably with Eagle and, therefore, can be grown satisfactorily on heavy soils.

Laramie was introduced with the thought that it would prove advantageous in the western and northern portions of Central Alberta. In these regions early maturity is important and the later maturing varieties frequently suffer severe damage from early fall frosts. It has a Victory type of kernel with a low percentage of hull and exhibits superior strength of straw. Experimental evidence shows, however, that Laramie should be confined to production in areas where early maturity is the limiting factor of production and where rainfall is fairly plentiful, since it does not produce satisfactory yields in the drier regions of the southern and eastern portions of Alberta.

We find, therefore, that Victory and Ajax are recommended for all soil zones, with Eagle listed in soil zones 2 and 3 and Laramie in soil zones 3 and 4.

PREPARATION OF LAND FOR FLAX ON THE PRAIRIES

In order to insure a satisfactory stand of either oil or fibre flax on the prairies, it is essential to keep several points in mind with regard to cultural practices.

Firstly, the land chosen to grow flax should be as free from weeds as possible. Secondly, the choice of the proper place in the farm rotation is of prime importance. Flax may be sown successfully on clean summerfallow, following sod, or even on second crop land. Generally speaking, summerfallow gives the highest crop yields, but on the other hand, flax following sod or second crop land is frequently free from weeds than when sown on summerfallow. Later growing weeds such as lambs' quarters, pig weed, and lady's thumb are often quite prevalent during growing season.

Fourthly, the land should be ploughed, cultivated and harrowed thoroughly until a fine seed-bed has been prepared. On land that is not too heavy, once or twice over with a culti-packer or roller before sowing insures a fine, even seed-bed.

Finally, the seed should be "drilled in" not more than one inch deep, and the field should be cross harrowed again immediately after sowing.

SOIL DRIFTING A PROBLEM

The wind can still blow. This was evidenced last week end and the amount of dust present in the air is a good indicator that there is a lack in our top soil. The only permanent way to keep soil from drifting is by using a crop rotation which contains grasses and legumes. Shelterbelts and trash cover are aids in the control of drifting but will not give a permanent solution to soil erosion.

NEW BULLETIN

A new bulletin has just come to this office entitled Heating the Farm Home. This booklet explains the heating problem and discusses the system commonly used. It is intended to be of assistance in the selection of fuel and equipment and in the operation of heating systems for the home. While emphasis is placed on those things which are of greatest interest in rural house-heating, the information given applies equally as well to the town or city house.

WEED CONTROL

Investigators are recommending 2, 4-D applications to the land before crops are seeded. This is called pre-emergence weed control and promises to be a good method of checking the growth of annual weeds in the grain fields. Perhaps in a few years we will be using 2, 4-D in this way.

SEED GROWERS MEETING

The annual meeting of the Canadian Seed Growers Association will meet in Edmonton this year. New and old seed growers in this area will get an opportunity to attend their association meeting and get better acquainted with the workings of this association. The date is sometime in June. This is a chance to get the latest information on the production and registration of seed crops.

lent on summer-fallow land and cause reduction in yields, as well as making the harvesting procedure more difficult.

Thirdly, experiments have shown that higher yields are received from the earlier sown flax, provided the land is warmed up sufficiently and is not too cold and wet. Chlorosis or yellowing in flax may be partially caused by sowing flax on cold, damp, insufficiently worked land. Flax plants affected by this chlorotic condition may come back somewhat, but will never fully recover during the subsequent growing season.

During the student's first year in the degree course, she studies such courses as Social Psychology, Philosophy, Chemistry, History and English. Social Psychology helps her to understand the patient in relation to his illness. It helps her to better understand herself so that she can adjust to varying situations and personalities. Philosophy helps her to think more clearly, to evaluate right and wrong and to form ideals by which to guide her actions. History and English, while not as closely related to nursing, enrich the life of any student, making her more aware of the world in which she lives.

While working on the floors of the hospital, the student is under the direction of trained clinical instructors. The classroom teaching is constantly being carried over to the wards, augmented by ward clinics, special studies of patients with various disease conditions and ward conferences. When a student is assigned to a surgical unit for example, the clinical instructor is able to help the student become proficient in this phase of nursing while she is actually caring for surgical patients. The time spent on each service is so planned that it becomes an educational experience.

Throughout the course a planned program of social and recreational activities offers the student diversion and helps her to become a well integrated personality. Many types of recreational facilities are available such as skiing, and skating, as well as a variety of competitive sports.

Use is made of the Nurses' Residence to teach community living. As members of a professional group living in a democratic society, it is the privilege and the obligation of nurses to function effectively as citizens and to promote the welfare of all.

The heating unit is built into the roof. This is mostly glass over an 800-foot square black metal sheet. Glaubers salt, melted under the rooftop sunshine, sends warm air to "heat bins" through the five-room house. Each bin serves two rooms through

Dr. Telkes, an associate researcher in metallurgy at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, estimated the solar heating would warm the house through 10 sunless days.

SPRING CLEANING HINTS

Painting Plaster
The subject of painting plaster, especially new plaster, is one which has received a lot of attention from the paint manufacturer and the painter alike. Of course, it is extremely unwise to paint "green" plaster until it has been properly treated, but even plaster which has been in place for some considerable time may "burn through" a paint job unless the surface is carefully prepared.

The first thing to be done then is to neutralize the lime in the plaster. Apply a coat of zinc sulphate solution, made by adding four pounds of zinc sulphate crystals to one gallon of water and stirring until the crystals are all dissolved. Before this solution is applied, however, any rough portions of the plaster should be given a good brushing with a stiff brush or broom to remove any loose particles. Let the job stand for two days after the following application of the zinc sulphate solution to give the chemicals sufficient time to neutralize the lime. Then, after the surface has been thoroughly dusted, it will be ready to re-

Shiny spots on New-Paint Surfaces

Shiny spots on new-paint surfaces, or "shiners" as they are sometimes called in the trade, can be of two types. The annoyance associated with them when they appear on a new surface is to be a semi-glossy or flat painted surface. Generally speaking, these spots are caused by over-brushing or over-rolling. The "shiners" show. If there is only a limited quantity of oil in the paint and the brush or roller is used in one place, the oil is brushed out of the paint to some extent and comes to the surface. Since it can't get back into the paint, it remains on the surface near the surface and forms a glossy spot or "shiner." Failure to keep the paint well stirred may also bring this oil to the surface. The shiner should be watched to keep all edges well at all times; If the paint becomes nearly set on a lap before the next brush stroke, the shiner will be there. "shiners" are likely to develop on

Paint Under Fluorescent Lighting
Accustomed as we are, after years of experience, to seeing colors under incandescent light, we are sometimes startled by the effects created by the newer fluorescent lighting.

There are four different types, generally speaking, of fluorescent lamps, their chief differences being that each gives off a light of a different color. They are the daylight lamp; the soft white; the white; and the "4500" white. It would take up too

FARM NOTES

UNDER THE SOW, TEN PIGS
If farmers considered every pig above the weaning average of eight a special prize and it is, possibly the old sow and her litter would get more attention.

But to win a prize one must know the game and play it fair, says E. H. Fraser, Animal Husbandry Division, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa. Don't cheat on the feeding and care of the brood sow and litter if you expect to win. Actually, proper care of the litter involves attention to many details—most of them small, but all contributing to greater profit.

The farrowing sow deserves a warm dry pen. Even artificial heat may be needed in severe weather to prevent chilling of the pigs. Further, a guard rail around the wall of the pen often saves little pigs from being crushed. In feeding the sow, consider her as a milk producer and then feed accordingly. Skim milk, oats and mill feeds are all good milk producing feeds. Include a variety of feeds in the ration.

Treatment of the little pigs for anemia is a "must" in this day and age. Without treatment, early spring pigs often become pale and listless. Either reduced iron or powdered ferrous sulphate can be used. The dose of reduced iron equals an aspirin tablet; for ferrous sulphate, the amount that can be put on a ten cent piece. Treat the pigs when two to four days of age and then twice again at weekly intervals.

Creep feeding can be started when the pigs are about three weeks of age. A creep is an arrangement whereby the pigs can feed at will, separately from the sow. Larger, thrifter pigs with less chance of a setback at weaning will be the reward. Feed a pig starter in the creep and provide water in a separate trough.

All of these recommendations are directed toward the raising of larger, truer and stronger pigs which will produce more profit for the farmer.

USE THE FANNING MILL.
A. M. Wilson, Field Crops Commissioner, Alberta Department of Agriculture, suggests that the best way to keep the farm free from weeds is to clean the seed at home. Although the centralized seed cleaning plant is increasing in importance, the fanning mill is still one of the most valuable pieces of machinery on the farm.

It is worth money to keep and free from Tartarian buckwheat, hoary cress, toadflax and any number of other troublesome weeds that may be introduced as a result of hauling grain to an ill-equipped plant for cleaning. Mr. Wilson warns that there is a wide difference between cleaning seed and removing dockage. Dockage machines are a very inefficient substitute for an establishment that can guarantee clean seed. Unless such an establishment is available in the community, the use of the fanning mill right on the farm will more than pay for itself.

Between 15 and 18 million bushels of grain will be sown in Alberta this spring. If the type of seed used is similar to that of past years we can expect that around one-half of this seed will be unfit for sowing as a result of weed seed content. Weeds are easy to plant but hard to destroy. Careful seed cleaning will pay dividends.

MILK FLOW OF SOWS AT FARROWING
To save the largest number of pigs in the litter take care of the sow at farrowing time. One of the most common faults says A. J. Charnetki, Livestock Supervisor, Alberta Department of Agriculture, is that too much feed is given to the sow immediately before farrowing, and immediately after farrowing. This heavy feed brings down the milk flow at a time when the new born pigs are too small to use all the milk.

Mr. Charnetki recommends that the sow be brought to farrowing quarters six or seven days before farrowing. Her feed should be made more laxative by the addition of lighter feeds such as oat chop, bran or shorts. It should also be reduced gradually so that three or four days before farrowing the sow is getting only about half the normal feed. At the time of farrowing only lukewarm water containing very little shorts or oat chop should be provided. She should be kept on this diet for 24 hours and the feed then gradually increased until the sow is back on full feed in a week or ten days.

If the udder becomes congested give the sow two heaping tablespoons of Epsom Salts in the feed and give plenty of water. The udder should be well bathed with warm water, com-

DON'T NEGLECT THE COARSE GRAINS

With the tendency towards increased wheat acreages this spring, Supervisor of Crop Improvement J. E. Birdall urges Alberta farmers to keep in mind the advantages of coarse grains. In northern and central Alberta particularly a variety of projects on the farm is essential.

Mr. Birdall points out that the British market will not take all our wheat. Increased acreages of this crop may quickly bring us back to short supplies and their problems. Coarse grains do well in central and northern Alberta. Even in southern Alberta barley will produce more pounds of grain per acre than other cereals. The livestock needed for the well balanced farm programme provides a very satisfactory channel for marketing these coarse grains.

If we are to get the best out of our land over a period of years without reducing its fertility, we need not only livestock and coarse grains, but forage crops too. It takes careful judgment to provide that balance of grain crops, forage crops, and livestock that will best meet the requirements of our soils. The uncertainty of markets, the growing trend of soil erosion, and the need for permanency in farming all serve to emphasize the value of such a plan. Before deciding to follow the trend towards more wheat it might be well to consider the facts.

TUBERCULOSIS IN POULTRY
Thousands of dollars that could be used to advantage by poultrymen of Alberta are lost every year as a result of tuberculosis infection of our poultry flocks. Even before 1932 when Dr. Robert Koch of Germany demonstrated the tubercle bacillus it was recognized that the bird form of tuberculosis (avian tuberculosis) was a contagious disease of poultry. In spite of this knowledge that the disease can be readily passed from infected to healthy birds, avian tuberculosis has spread to nearly every country in the world.

Dr. C. H. Bigland, Pathologist on Poultry Diseases, Alberta Department of Agriculture, advises that the large percentage of cases diagnosed at the Veterinary Laboratory shows that a great many Alberta flocks both large and small are infected. He says that an "estimable amount of money in hand dollars and cents is lost every year by poultry men and farmers indirectly by every person in the province through the ravages of avian tuberculosis.

Among the reasons for this heavy loss are decreased egg production; deaths of infected birds; the large number of hog carcasses and portions condemned because of avian tuberculosis infection; condemnation and discard of tuberculous chickens because these are considered unfit for human food; loss of valuable food stuffs fed to sick birds; and the infection of other birds, hogs, and even sheep by infected birds.

Avian tuberculosis has been tolerated by some in the past as incurable. Taking a handful of Epsom Salts in a pint of water. After this treatment dry the udder and apply warm moist oil.

Be sure that the floor in the farrowing pen is free from drafts, and from cold, clammy dampness.

EFFECT OF 2,4-D ON WESTERN SNOWBERRY

During 1945 two one-acre strips of Western Snowberry were treated with two formulations of 2,4-D and at two rates. The strips were sprayed on June 8, a bright, warm day when growth was active, says W. J. Brackley, Assistant, Field Crops, Dominion Experimental Station, Brandon, Man. The machine used for spraying had a 20-foot boom and was attached to a tractor. The power was supplied by the pulley on the tractor, and pressure was maintained at 245 pounds.

The two formulations used were amine and ester (Butyl), each two rates of one and one and a half pounds of acid per acre.

The ester gave satisfactory results with both rates of application. However, the heavier rate proved more effective and gave a higher percentage of kill. Where the ground was even and the plants received uniform coverage of spray at the 1 1/2 pound rate of ester, approximately 100 per cent kill resulted. The one pound rate of ester gave a lower percentage of kill.

Amine applied at both rates gave poor results and could not be considered an effective spray to eradicate Western Snowberry in these trials and at the rates used.

Examination of ester-treated plants in late October showed the woody portion of the plants to be dried and hard. When they were bent by hand they cracked easily and broke in two. When the woody portion was pulled the root came away from the soil quite readily with every indication that the plants were killed.

The leaves dropped from the plants four weeks after spraying with ester, and no further new growth was observed throughout the season.

but it can be controlled and even eradicated from a farm by the strict application of our present knowledge of this disease.

Full information about the control of tuberculosis in poultry can be obtained from Dr. C. H. Bigland, Veterinary Laboratory, Alberta Department of Agriculture, Edmonton.

What for the Household

THE PENNY-WISE COOK

Meat is usually the most expensive item on the menu. For this reason most restaurant meals are built around the meat and priced accordingly.

The meat served in the home cannot always be judged by the original cost for the ingenious homemaker often makes most elegant dishes from the cheaper cuts. For instance, ground beef offers endless possibilities for rich-tasting, fine flavored dishes, although it is classed as an economy meat. When expertly seasoned and well cooked, dishes made from ground beef need no apologies at either the family meal or company dinner.

A tasty sauce of tomatoes with well browned, ground beef when served on macaroni or spaghetti, as the Italians do, will make a satisfying meal for six from a half pound of minced beef.

Every cook has her favorite recipe for meat loaf. This is one of the best meat stretchers; when served hot or cold it is a great favorite.

Hamburgers are approved teen-age fare when away from home and are just as popular when served at the family table.

The home economist of the Consumer Section, Dominion Department of Agriculture, have their favorite ways of using ground beef. Here are a few:

- Toasted Devilled Hamburgers
- 1 lb. hamburger
- 1/3 cup chili sauce
- 1/2 teaspoon prepared mustard
- 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1 teaspoon finely chopped onion
- 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 6 slices bread, 1/2 inch thick
- Combine meat, chili sauce, mustard, horseradish, onion, Worcestershire sauce, salt and pepper. Toast bread on one side under broiler. Spread the untopped side of each slice with meat mixture. Return and broil for 8 minutes at least 3 inches below broiling unit. Serve hot with tomato sauce. Yield: six servings.

- Meat Balls in Tomato Sauce
- 1 slice bread, 1-inch thick
- 1 1/2 lbs. meat, beef, veal, pork or liver
- 2 eggs
- 1/2 cup onion, finely minced
- 1/2 cup finely minced onion
- 3 tablespoons chopped parsley
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon paprika
- 1/2 teaspoon grated lemon rind
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice
- 1/2 clove garlic, chopped (optional)
- 3 tablespoons grated Canadian cheese

Soak bread in water to cover. Put meat through food chopper, using medium blade. Beat eggs and add to meat. Mix oil, add onion and saute until golden brown. Add to meat. Press water from bread, break with a fork and add to meat together with parsley, salt, paprika, lemon rind and juice, chopped garlic and cheese. Combine thoroughly and shape lightly into 3-inch balls. Broil or saute in a small amount of fat until done, about 10 to 15 minutes. Serve hot in Tomato Sauce with or without boiled noodles or spaghetti. Yield: six servings.

- Tomato Sauce
- 1 1/2 cups tomato juice
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon ground cloves
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- Dash of pepper
- 1/2 teaspoon onion juice
- Dash of cayenne pepper
- 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire or spicy meat sauce
- 3 tablespoons flour
- Heat tomato juice, salt, cloves, sugar, pepper, onion juice, cayenne pepper and meat sauce. Blend flour with a little cold water or cold tomato juice and add gradually to the hot tomato mixture. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Serve piping hot with meat balls.

PLAXTONVILLE

Mr. Delmer Plaxton visited at his parents' home over the week-end.

The regular monthly meeting of the Gilt Edge Ladies' Welfare Club was held at the home of Mrs. A. E. Kitchen on Friday, April 22. The contest was given by Mrs. Gardiner. A lovely lunch was served at the close of the meeting.

We are glad to report that both Mrs. A. Dickout and Miss Marilyn Teeter have returned home from the local hospital. Also that both Rodney Meyer and Jack McLean who are still in the hospital are able to be up on their feet again, and soon to be coming home.

GILT EDGE

Mrs. Jack McClennon has been on the sick list for the past week, but is better now. She has gone to Lloydminster for a few days.
A great many people are sick at present with the flu and sore throats. Miss Helen Venge has returned to her job as waitress in the Hotel Care. The Gilt Edge Welfare Club held their monthly meeting Friday, April 22 at the home of Mrs. Bert Kitchen, with a good attendance.

LIBRARY NOTES

May 4th

To be placed on the Adult shelves in the Library this month are thirty-five new books. Some of these are new publications while others are reprints. Those who have read "The Gathering Storm" will want to continue Winston Churchill's memoirs in "Their Finest Hour".

In "Sholly Murphy, Crusader," by Hope Sanders writes a fine biography of Emily Murphy. This should be of particular interest to Alberta telephone poles were blown down, so we have no telephone service at present.

Women because it tells of Emily Murphy's experiences as Juvenile Judge in Edmonton and also of her success to have a woman defining as a person, "India, Land of the Black Pagoda" by Lowell Thomas should be most satisfactory.

For mystery fans there is a new Gardner book "The Case of the Battered Hook" and also "The Steel Mirror" by Donald Hamilton.

Readers who enjoy Emily Loring will welcome "High Of Heart", also Kathleen Norris "Heart Broken Melody" and "The Feast of Ishmael" by Louise Mlin, and if you have brought up a family then you'll appreciate "Mrs. Applegreen's Year", by Louise Kent.

Make contributions to the Wainwright Cancer Committee — Mrs. Mabel Turner in Charge.

Just before payday you've probably looked at what's left of your wages or housekeeping money and said: "Where does the money go?" A company must ask itself the same question, and each year provides the answer in its annual report.

The dollars we received last year—for gasoline, kerosene, fuel oil and other products—went this way:

Crude Oil and other raw materials we needed to make the products took the first big slice. Depending on where you live your oil may have come from Arabia, from South America, or from deep in the United States. In Canada only Alberta produced crude in quantity.

Manufacturing and packaging came next—complex and intricate refining operations are needed to make the hundreds of oil products which find thousands of uses in our homes and industries, on our highways, in the air and on the sea.

Transportation was the next big bite—products must move over wide areas to serve all communities in Canada.

Marketing was fourth. Marketing provides the products you need wherever you are—power, heat and lubricants for factory, farm and home. Marketing supplies that local businessman, the dealer; and if you're a fuel oil user, keeps oil in your tank!

Taxes to provincial and federal governments absorbed 7.06 cents. And this does not include gasoline tax, which—depending on where you live—takes from 22 to 35 cents out of every dollar you spend for standard grade gasoline.

Profit was 4.9 cents out of each sales dollar. From this we paid three cents to shareholders and dividends. The rest was used—together with a lot more money we borrowed and still more obtained by sales of investments—to help meet your increasing needs for oil.

PERSONNEL REQUIRED FOR NORTHERN SCHOOLS AND NURSING STATIONS

An attractive opportunity to share in the development of Canada's Arctic and sub-Arctic areas is presented in the call for qualified social workers, nurses and teachers being issued jointly by the Hon. Colin Gibson, Minister of Mines and Resources, and the Hon. Paul Martin, Minister of National Health and Welfare. The Northwest Territories Administration and the Department of National Health and Welfare are working together to develop a new program of health and educational services in the Territories.

The increase in the number of persons now living in the far north has resulted in the establishment of new schools and nursing stations, and the provision of new community services designed to make life in the Territory healthier and more agreeable. Since health services are the responsibility of the Department of National Health and Welfare, the latter is working with the Northwest Territories Administration to put the furtherance of the new program into effect, and steps are being taken to recruit personnel with abilities and experience as such as to bring about a close co-ordination of activities.

A new classification of teachers, known as Welfare Teachers, has been set up by the Northwest Territories Administration and the Indian Affairs Branch of Mines and Resources. These teachers perform duties considerably beyond those of the classroom teacher and for such duties they draw additional salary. They are employed for the full twelve-month period, and the customary civil service holiday allowance of eighteen working days per year.

All Government employees stationed in the north receive an extra living allowance to compensate for the higher cost of living in the Territories. Transportation expenses from their home point of departure to their station are paid, and in all cases they are supplied with comfortable furnished quarters. Civil service superannuation benefits are also available to them.

Nursing stations operated by the Department of National Health and Welfare are designed to serve as dispensaries for those requiring medicines and treatment for minor ailments, and to provide nursing care for persons in need of short periods of hospitalization. They are also a means of ensuring proper and immediate attention for medical cases until the services of a doctor are available. The nurse in charge of such a station is in frequent contact by radio with the nearest medical officer.

Welfare Teachers are expected to carry on welfare work and to give leadership to all local activities designed to improve community life. They will organize recreational programs and measures for adult education, visit the homes, do investigation work for and advise the Administration. They will endeavor in all ways to improve the living conditions and the general welfare of the communities in which they are stationed.

Working together, the nurse and the Welfare Teacher stationed at any settlement will take every precaution to maintain community health. They will also co-operate with those responsible for the administration of family allowances to ensure that payments are properly used and the maximum benefits derived. They will encourage their communities to give attention to such matters as the proper preparation of foods, improved housekeeping methods and personal cleanliness. Their work will go to prevent the spread of disease and to maintain a good community spirit.

The Northwest Territories Administration is particularly anxious to hear from married couples interested in going to live and work in the north. The most desirable consideration is that in which the wife is a trained nurse or social welfare worker, and the husband a qualified teacher. The services of such couples would then be available to the Administration and to the Department of National Health and Welfare for employment in either a school, a nursing station, or in general welfare activities.

Most of the northern settlements are isolated for varying periods of the year. It is felt, therefore, that married couples would be better suited for employment in the past year. We also wish our successor, Mr. Henry Wong of Edmonton, the very best of luck in the coming year of business.

employment in the north than single persons. In spite of the many ways in which northern living has been made more enjoyable during recent years, hardships and difficulties still exist, and some life assumes a greater importance there than in more populous areas.

much space to go into the specific uses which have been worked out for each of these types. One type of four percent, for example, gives a perfect light for precision work but is unsatisfactory to completions and foods. Another type, the soft white fluorescent, is known to the trade as the "flitter" because it gives off a soft pinkish white light which has proven excellent for the beauty parlor, the fashion salon, the intimate dining spot.

Junior Red Cross Do Well Serving Lunches Here

The Junior Red Cross spent a very profitable Saturday afternoon, under the supervision of Mrs. Dewar, Mrs. Spence and Mrs. Loh, when they served lunch from 4 to 5 p.m. in the Legion Hall. Total proceeds of the afternoon amounted to about $18.00, and the Junior Red Cross is well pleased with the result of their efforts.

The children worked in shifts, and served ice cream, pie, cake and coffee to a large number of town and country folks who dropped in for refreshments.

During the evening a huge Christmas stocking, donated by the Coalgate-Palmolive-Pest Co. was raffled off and was won by E. Chapman, who gave it back to be auctioned off. With C. W. Ryall capably acting as auctioneer, the stocking was sold to C. Perkins for $15.00.

A special feature of the whole affair was a running program of entertainment which carried on during most of the time, in which the children gave recitations, sang songs, etc.

Art Watson of the Artland district is really going in for Registered Short horn cattle, having purchased several animals from the Shirley Stock Farm here. We suppose in the future Art will be busy attending all the stock shows with his prize cattle, we say Good Luck, Art.

The Amateur our sponsored by the Neilburg Hospital Auxiliary which was held in the Community Hall Friday was a large success. Out of the 34 entries the Rutherford Boys, Bob and Bill rendered a musical selection winning the first prize which they very generously gave to the second winner, little Della. Hunsberger Vance won third prize, J. E. Gibbons was the winner of a lovely croquet runner, donated by Mrs. Stacey. The amount cleared was $114.00 with the runner bringing in $57.00, so we say thanks to the committee, Mrs. Dell Bell, Mrs. P. Fredrick and Mrs. O. Mathers who were in charge of all arrangements.

TOWN PROHIBITS FIRECRACKERS

In view of the danger fire as a result of the careless use of firecrackers, the council of the Village of Chauvin has passed a By-Law prohibiting their use within the Village limits.

Notices are being posted to this effect, and it is hoped that all will comply with this regulation without the need of enforcement.

Mr. Akitt was 71 years of age, October last. He came to Wainwright from England about forty years ago and assisted in the construction of our line of railway, known then as the Great Northern Railway. He was settled on a farmstead in the prospect Valley district, north of Ribstone, where he resided until the time of his death.

Quite a large number of friends and tributes of respect, including some friends from Edgerton and Wainwright.

Lawyers investigating the charges had agreed that there was not sufficient evidence to proceed with prosecution.

Miss Linton surrendered voluntarily in Montreal about three weeks ago. She had been in hiding 33 months. During that time she married. It is thought she spent some time in the United States.

Miss Linton, former employee of the National Film Board, had been scheduled to go on trial in Montreal in May on charges that she had been in contact with Russian agents.

Checking on the Palestine Truce

How United Nations truce terms on the widely-scattered fighting fronts in Palestine kept in touch with each other is shown in this photo of one of the key stations in a U.N.-organized radio network covering Palestine and Rhodes. This system helped make it possible to check on observance of the truce which paved the way for the armistice agreements now in effect between Israel and Arab states.

Ribstone Oldtimer Passes Away at 73

BUTZE

Another Easter has come and gone, the bunny rabbit has been here, the birds are singing, the grass and the trees are green, the school children are back to their reading, writing and arithmetic and the farmers are busy fighting the weeds, getting their crops in and hoping that the harvest will be more bounteous this year.

Among the Easter holidaymakers in the district were Mrs. M. McCaighey, Ronald Baynham, Ed Lutherser and Lucien Cyr.

Leon Tarcotte is a full resident in the district now and is busy herding his Ford over the hills getting his crop in.

Another familiar face in our midst is that of Bill Sigurdson who is home on his holidays.

Lyle Baynham is cutting a wide swath these days, he is doing his farm with a new big 4 ft. tiller.

Spud Dickson is spending the daylight hours in our district putting the crop in for Mr. C. Sigurdson.

Mr. George Miller tells us he has been busy the last few days moving to a new residence in town.

Mr. C. Sigurdson motored to Edmonton on Monday, returning the same day.

On Thursday afternoon, Lola Stone suffered a painful accident. On returning home from school, riding double on a bike, Lola got her foot through the spokes on the rear wheel and the results were some bad cuts and bruises. She was rushed to the Doctor at Provost and fortunately no bones were broken and she was able to return home the same night but will have to spend a few days in bed.

Mrs. F. Hinshaw has returned home from the States where she was called some time ago due to the illness of her sister.

Part of our school bus route is now in the making. The two miles, from the State road, east to Pete Olson camp, is under construction and when finished will be a nice high grade. Of course this does not complete the route, we must have about five miles of gravel to make the rest of our road suitable for bus travel. So let's keep hoping that we see the gravel gang down this way some time soon.

We understand that the Butze ball team is going strong but we haven't as yet the results of any games.

BANK TO BE OPEN THREE DAYS IN EACH WEEK

Commencing May 7th, the Bank of Montreal will be open at Chauvin for three days a week, instead of two as formerly. Until further notice the sub-agency will be open on Tuesdays, Fridays and Saturdays.

A Mothers Day Service is being held in the Westminster Church, Chauvin, on Sunday, May 8th, at 11 a.m. by the Sunday School. Special music is being prepared. A cordial invitation is extended to everyone who wishes to attend with a special invitation to the parents.

Mrs. L. B. Nicholson of Edmonton arrived back to spend a few weeks with Mr. and Mrs. P. Dobson and help to look after the new grand daughter.

We are glad to report that Mr. L. R. Larson has improved to such an extent that he is back home after an extended stay in the Lloydminster Hospital.

POLICE HAVE BUSY DAY

As a result of recent investigations, police court had an unusually docket at Chauvin on Wednesday last. Fines varying from fifteen dollars to thirty dollars and costs were levied under "The Highway Act", "The Pool Room Act" and "The Alberta Liquor Act".

The summer staff of the J. Varty farm is busy night and day putting in the crop.

The Tabernacle Young People were up to Provost Gospel Mission last Saturday and presented a very inspiring program under the theme "Inspiring the Seed".

A number of the young people from Chauvin and district here spent an enjoyable week-end with Smuland.

The young lawyer was arguing his first case.

"Gentlemen of the jury," he declared, "there are 24 hours involved in this case—just exactly twice the number in the jury box."

True happiness consists in making happy.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Kimball Celebrate 50th Wedding Anniversary

On Wednesday April 27th some one hundred and twenty people gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Kimball, of Edgerton, to wish them well on their Golden Wedding Anniversary. The Kimballs held open house from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. during which time a number of friends gathered to wish them many more years of happiness. A delicious lunch was served. A beautifully decorated two tiered wedding cake ornamented the table which was decorated with streamers and bells in honor of the occasion. During this time Mr. Don Pawsey of Wainwright made a presentation of money on behalf of the family and friends of the district.

At seven o'clock in the evening a family dinner was served at which twenty four members were present. Open house was again held from 8:30 p.m. on when many more friends of the town and district came to wish them well. During the evening a mock ceremony was held. Mr. McKay, Sr. officiating, Mr. and Mrs. Kimball taking the wedding vows. Mr. and Mrs. Bob McKay acted as best man and bridesmaid. Later in the evening Mr. Fred Ramsey made a presentation on behalf of the local Old Timers Association. Later lunch was served, including a 32 lb. turkey, and a very enjoyable time was had by all those present. Mr. and Mrs. Kimball were married at Tekamah, Nebraska, on April 27th, 1899. They came to the Edgerton District in 1901, and resided on a farm until 1904 at which time they moved into Edgerton. Mr. and Mrs. Kimball have one son and one daughter, Mr. Ivan Kimball and Mrs. Tom Jackson, both living in the Edgerton district. They have eight grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

CARD OF THANKS

We would like to express our sincere appreciation to those who helped in any way to make our 50th Wedding Anniversary such a success. This event we know we will never forget. Many thanks especially to those who contributed to the party of money presented to us.

MR. and MRS. IRA KIMBALL.

Before the Stanley Cup finals become too distant a memory, take a look back and ask yourself just who deserves most of the credit for the brilliant performance of Toronto Maple Leafs.

It's not easy to decide. Each player hit top form in the series against Detroit Red Wings as Leafs made National Hockey League history by winning three Stanley Cup titles in a row.

row. Some fans might pick veteran goalie Turk Broda, or pivotman Ted Kennedy, or wingman Harry Watson. But there is a quiet-spoken man who spent most of the year standing behind these players, directing, cajoling, reprimanding and praising as the case warranted. He, too, deserves much credit.

Coch Clarence (Happy) Day could easily be classed among the all-time hockey coaches, for while his team earned hockey immortality, his name went down in the records as the only man ever to coach a team to five Stanley Cup triumphs. And those five victories came in only nine years since he took over the helm of the Leafs in 1941-42.

He isn't a colorful figure. He leaves that part to his boss—Conn Smythe, general manager and president of Maple Leaf Gardens. In fact he seldom evens makes announcements during the season. But he's behind the club at all times with his hockey know-how, strategy and general assistance.

Has Eye For Talent
Some of the credit for Day's success must go to Smythe, a good chooser of lieutenants. Before Day took over as coach he worked for Smythe as a player and those years added to his coaching time have brought the two close together. Each knows what the other thinks and expects.

Leafs have an extensive farm club system with players available at a moment's call from their American League haunts, Pittsburgh Hornets and two Toronto amateur teams—Marlboros Juniors and seniors. If men from these teams don't fit in—and they did very well to most cases during the season—just closed—then Smythe can go out into the open market and buy players.

SEEDTIME and HARVEST
By H. J. Mather

Line Elevators Farm Service,

On the Control of Wild Oats

The use of efficient cultural and crop sequence practices still remain the only sound approach to the Wild Oat control problem. Growth Habits. The growth habits of the Wild Oat differ considerably from those of the cultivated or "tame" oat. It possesses, for instance, certain characteristics which make it to survive ordinary cultural practices. It ripens faster than the common cereals, and many seeds fall to the ground before the cereal crop in which it is growing is ready to harvest.

Dormancy and "After-Ripening"
Newly-shattered wild oat seeds are usually high in moisture content. After falling to the ground they remain in a "dormant" or "resting" stage for some time. The drying of such seed is accompanied by certain processes within the seed which break the dormancy and allow germination to take place. This is called the "after-ripening" process. Seeds that are buried in the soil by cultivation, before drying, will not germinate until they are again brought to the surface and dried out.

Germination Temperatures. Wild oat seeds germinate best under cool conditions. In fact, few seeds will germinate if the soil temperature is above 50° F. This explains why wild oats grow well on fallow land in the spring and why they do not grow readily later in the season. Cultivation of fallow land during the hot summer months merely serve to bring the wild oat seeds to the surface where they "after-ripen". There they lie until favorable temperature conditions for their germination occur. Obviously, therefore, any crop that is sown early on fallow the following year is likely to be severely infested. Delaying seeding until about June 15th will permit the destruction of several crops of wild oats. An early maturing barley, or oats for green feed, may then be sown. Such a crop will be relatively free from wild oats.

More detailed information concerning the control of wild oats by cultural methods will be found in L.E.F.S. Circular 11. Copies of this new circular may be obtained through local Line Elevator agents, or from Line Elevators Farm Service, Winnipeg or Calgary.

WHAT EASTER PROVES

The Christian Church celebrates Easter for more than sentimental reasons. It knows that far more important than the longed-for bunnies and baskets, which have usurped the original significance of the season in many homes today, is the great historical fact which the day commemorates.

The Resurrection of Christ from the dead on Easter Morning is the cornerstone of Christianity, for by His Resurrection on the third day, Christ gave irrefutable answers to all questions. In the first place, by His Resurrection He proved Himself to be the Son of God, as He claimed, or as the Bible puts it, He was Declared to be the Son of God by the Resurrection from the dead.

when he gave away five players for Max Bentley. Hawks missed the playoffs both years. Leafs won the Cup both years, and Bentley is considered one of Toronto's top players.

Then there was the case last year when Smythe turned over Wally Haynes and Steve Morris to New York Rangers for Cal Gardner and Bill Jussa. Gardner fitted into Leafs "strength-through-centre" plan while Jussa added more power to an already powerful defence.

It must seem strange to a lot of fans that not a man on the Toronto team was picked for either the first or second all-star team after its brilliant record-smashing performance. The closest any player came was an honorable mention.

But in that one fact alone may be the secret of the team's success. The team isn't made up of one or two individual stars, but a group of men who play together and for each other. They're not stars in their own right, but together they're almost unbeatable when the chips are down.

By the miracle of Easter, Christ proves that all He taught about Sin, about Salvation and about Heaven must be true.

Thirdly, the happening on that first Easter Morning gave proof, positive that the Father in Heaven accepted the sacrifice of His Son for the sins of the whole world.

Finally Christ's Resurrection is the guarantee that all believers will some day arise into life eternal. These are the tremendous facts of Easter, and because these things are true, Christ said "I am the Resurrection and the life, whoever liveth and believeth in me shall never die."

Do you believe?

Second City Feller: "Not bunch—herd!"

First City Feller: "Heard what?"

Second City Feller: "Herd of cows!"

First City Feller: "Sure, I've heard of cows."

Second City Feller: "I mean cow herd."
